In the about state there is a list of items that is being fetched from firebase. The list is being fetched and I render it with a and handle the click event. I have a form where user inputs her details and clicks on Add to cart. Once the form is submitted I go to the home state. Everything is working fine. What I am trying to do is: when the user comes to the home state I render a div that has a button. When the user clicks on the button, I wish to render the about state and go to the list of items. I wish to render a certain item, depending on what the user clicks. I think this is possible with react-router. How can I achieve it? Here is my code:

import React, { Component } from 'react'; import { Router, Route, Link, withRouter } from 'react-router-dom'; import Home from '../components/Home'; import About from '../components/About'; import Item from '../components/Item'; class App extends Component { render() { return( Home
